Introduction and Background:

This great date is designed to happen in the comfort of your own home. A date night is a planned night together, whether that is in or out. On this date, you are going to install your very own home "security system." Once your security system is installed, you will have the peace of mind that comes from a plan of action to protect your attraction, interaction, reaction, traction, satisfaction, and lots of action...OH YEAH!

For you to select the home security system that is right for you, you must do a home evaluation. The evaluation process begins by creating a dinner environment that could only happen in the privacy of your own home.

Materials Required:

- Dine-at-home for two (take out or home-cooked meal)
- Two Phones
- Two Pens
- Dessert

Set-Up:

Before you separate, decide on the amount of time you want setup to take.

Ladies: Go put on that thing in your closet you love to wear (but don't get to often). Grab your phone and on your man to call you.

Guys: Grab your phone and set up dinner in an unexpected area of your home.

Guys: Once your dinner setup is complete, go outside the front door and call your wife to tell her you are there for dinner.

Ladies: When your man calls, answer the phone with a playful phrase, for example: "One hot mama, Who's calling please?"

Guys: Once your wife opens the door, greet her in a way that would make your nosey neighbor blush. Now grab her hand and lead her to the mystery dinner location.

Ladies: Close your eyes as your husband leads you to the mystery dinner location. When he tells you to open your eyes, be impressed, be very impressed.

Procedure (the date):

Step 1: Home Evaluation

As you are having dinner, do a home evaluation by answering the following questions:

- What was your favorite room in your childhood home?
- What was the ugliest piece of furniture or decorative item in your home?
- How was your room decorated?

- If you had to donate one piece of our furniture to charity, what would it be?
- If you had to steal one piece of furniture from one of our friends or relatives, what would it be?
- What is your favorite part of our home?
- Would you rather have more stuff for our home or more outside help with our home?
- What is your favorite memory in this home?

Step 2: Install Motion Detectors

Motion detectors add another barrier to your home security system. There is one thing that causes almost constant motion in and around our homes: household chores. Unfortunately, chores are a necessary part of your home life but can unknowingly turn into intruders that break in and rob you of your fun! Differing views of how to handle household chores are a huge source of conflict for many couples. For some, chores are more than tasks; they are expressions of the heart.

Make a list of everyday household chores that are done in your home. Lay your list on the table. Ask each other the questions on the next page.

- What are the three chores you enjoy the most? (Relatively speaking, of course)
- Act out (charades) the three tasks you wish would magically disappear.
- What are the three chores (if any) you feel take too much time and energy to complete? Why? Do you think some duties could be cut out altogether? Why?
- Are there any chores we could afford to pay someone else to do? If not, do you think it would be worth giving up something else to have the extra money to pay for outside help?
- Say to your spouse: "Since you dislike _____, I will be responsible for making sure it gets done for the next month."

Step 3: Install Entry Point Sensors

For our homes to be secure, we have to "sensor" who and what comes in and out of our home. Our work schedules and household chores can be the intruders that rob our home life of what it should be. To best identify the intruders trying to enter into our homes, play the game, "Intruder Alert!", the game card is located on the back.

Step 4: Install Equipment

Go to the least-used room in your home to have your dessert. As you eat your dessert, answer the following questions:

- What about our home life do you think makes God the happiest?
- What are one or two practical things we could do to keep it that way?
- What about our home life do you think God wants us to change?
- What are one or two practical things we could do to change those things?

Kiss after you finish dessert. We think you know where to take it from here.....OH YEAH!

Intruder Alert!

The object of the game below is to score more points than the intruder. The intruder earns the points if you did not successfully complete the task. If the intruder wins, make some adjustments and play again in a few days.
